WORKING CONDITIONS

Physical Demands
The Mental Health Worker will be required to move throughout the community and beyond, so must be comfortable driving and walking in all weather. The Mental Health Worker must be able to prioritize situations and manage time, and may find that they are needed at irregular hours causing fatigue and stress. They may experience stress and stress related symptoms due to interacting with clients in crisis. The Mental Health Worker may be exposed to illness and unsanitary conditions so must take care to protect their own health. The Mental Health Worker may also have to manage physically threatening clients and be prepared to be responsible for their own safety, and the safety of others.

Environmental Conditions
The Mental Health Worker may find their office to be busy with both scheduled and unscheduled clients. They must be ready to respond quickly and effectively to many types of situations, including crisis situations. The Mental Health Worker may also be invited to other environments that are stressful. They may experience isolation because members of the community may not always agree with the decisions they make, and the commitment to confidentiality may not allow a response. The Mental Health Worker may also experience isolation because there is no one else in the community doing the same kind of work. The Mental Health Worker must be prepared to manage their own stress.

Sensory Demands
The Mental Health Worker will be in contact with individuals and families in crisis who may be ill, using substances and/or not attentive to personal health and safety for themselves or their homes. The Mental Health Worker may experience a number of unpleasant sensory demands associated with the lack of personal care.

Mental Demands
The Mental Health Worker must monitor their own time and stress levels to ensure that they are able to effectively assist clients. They may find that they are continually interrupted, and may have to quickly assess situations to respond appropriately. The Mental Health Worker may be placed in a situation where his/her own life may be threatened as well as life-threatening situations for others such as instances of attempted suicide.
